Many students feel nervous before exams, but staying calm is very important. Neha used to feel anxious, but she learned how to manage her stress. She prepared her lessons on time and revised them more than once. She believed in herself and avoided last-minute cramming. She also made a simple study timetable and followed it every day. Neha ensured she got enough sleep and ate healthy food to keep her mind fresh. She talked to her teachers and parents whenever she felt worried. These habits helped her feel more confident and positive.

On the day of the exam, Neha reached the exam hall early. She read the question paper carefully and answered the easy questions first.
